NURTURING PARENTING FACILITATOR TRAINING

Facilitated By:

Gayle C. Fowler
*Nationally Recognized
Nurturing Parenting®
Trainer & Consultant*

Learn how to implement competency-based Nurturing Parenting Programs to meet the specific parenting needs of families.

7 Principles of Nurturing Parenting®

- Empathy
- Feelings of Attachment
- Nurturing Oneself
- Gentle Touch
- Discipline
- Expressing Feelings
- Expectations and Self-Worth

Participants will learn to:

- Design and implement parenting programs based on their families, community and cultural needs
- Collect data and measure outcomes using the Adult-Adolescent Parenting Inventory (AAPI) and Nurturing Skills Competency Scale (NSCS) to track program impact
- Incorporate experiential learning activities, personal and group reflection, home practice assignments and supportive group discussions
- Enhance group discussions and facilitate group skills to support relationship building and incorporate the protective factors
- Increase parental and child knowledge so they are better equipped to manage stress, regulate emotions, implement positive discipline techniques, and advance social-emotional learning concepts

Participants will also learn how to use these assessment tools:

Adult-Adolescent Parenting Inventory (AAPI-2)

The AAPI-2 has proven invaluable in assessing parenting attitudes and child-rearing beliefs of parents and adolescents. Founded on five parenting constructs known to lead to abusive parenting, the AAPI-2 provides scores that profile parents at risk for abusing and neglecting children.

Nurturing Skills Competency Scale (NSCS)

The NSCS is an inventory designed to gather information, both past and current, about individuals and their families in order to alert family members as well as professionals about on-going conditions that could lead to the initial occurrence of child maltreatment or the recurrence of child maltreatment.

Nurturing Parenting Programs meet and exceed the 6 Protective Factors identified by the U.S. Government for the prevention and treatment of Child Abuse and Neglect.
